

PICTURE NEWS OF THE WAR--THE CAMERA AS CORRESPONDENT

Belgian soldiers who have burrowed into a haystack to keep themselves warm.

"This bread is made from flour given by the people of Canada," is the label on the loaves that the London boy is carrying home--The million-sack gift is just now being used to feed the poor of England.

Wounded from the battlefields near Warsaw being discharged at a hospital entrance in that city.

The Sultan of Turkey and German plenipotentiaries driving between lines of soldiers thru the streets of Constantinople--The windjammers in the harbor give an idea of the modernism of the Turk.

Rich people were made paupers overnight by the ruin inflicted by battling armies in Poland--The people here are of the merchant class, and are being fed by a relief committee of the Polish nobility.

To repel English landing parties--German quickfliers being set up on the promenade at Ostend, commanding the approach from the sea.

DRILLING AT EXHIBITION CAMP-GERMANS REACH WARSAW, AS PRISONERS

The Mounted Rifles are getting their mounts, and are now engaged in teaching their horses army manoeuvres on the Exhibition race track.

The Midway, where fun runs riot at Exhibition time, turned into a parade ground for the cooks and bakers, who must drill like other soldiers.

Tobogganists on the High Park slides almost looping the loop against the bank on the west side of Grenadier Pond.

Marching German prisoners thru the streets of Warsaw, to the intense interest of the people on the sidewalk and the street cars, to whom the war has been brought very, very close by the many fatal attempts of the Germans to reach the city.

Some of the Krupp guns do go wrong—This is one of the fort pieces that exploded during the fighting at Tsing Tau, killing many men.

WHERE THE BABY KILLERS LEFT THEIR CALLING CARDS IN ENGLISH TOWNS

A house in Whyham street, Scarborough, where a shell went thru a window, blew part of the walls out, and killed four people.

How a shot from a German cruiser wrecked a bedroom in White—By a strange coincidence this dwelling is named Hanover House.

The almost clean-cut hole of a shell that went thru the Grand Hotel Scarborough.

A group of Scarborough people outside the Royal Hotel, discussing the attack—They appear unperturbed and calm.

Where the shells of the baby killers tore light woodwork into shreds like so much paper—a picture gallery at Scarborough completely wrecked.

Civic officials making their rounds to report the damage—They are here inspecting a shell-struck photographer's studio on Bellevue street, Scarborough.

Tisdall's Greatest $1.00 a Day Reduction Diamond Sale Now in Full Progress

HUNDREDS of rare bargains that cannot fail to command your attention. The bonafide bargain-giving character of this sale is evidenced by the constantly increasing public interest taken in the event. The daily increasing number of purchasers is creating a record in our Diamond Sales.

No doubt you are familiar with our method of closing out the remainder of our holiday stock of Diamonds, but we will repeat it because we want you to keep it in mind and talk about it. On January 4th we placed on sale in our show window our entire remaining stock of Diamonds, plainly marked at our factory prices, which saves you the middleman's profits. For the following 30 business days we reduce the price of every Ring or Pin $1.00 each day, until sold.

Consequently on Monday anything that remains unsold may be purchased for $7.00 below the factory price, at which it is marked. For example, a Ring that sells regularly at $25.00 may be had on Monday for $18.00. On Tuesday the same ring will be $17.00, if not sold, and so on.

Already this is a most sensational bargain-giving sale in Diamonds, and our customers are picking up some rare bargains.

Watch our window closely, pick out what you want now, and secure it before someone else gets it ahead of you.
